HUNTER SHOT DIES ON ROAD

JESSE WATT BLEEDS TO DEATH BEFORE DOCTOR COMES.

INJURY IS ACCIDENTAL

Gun Of Bernard Maher, 19, Is Discharged, Shot Tearing Through Companion's Leg And Severing Artery.

While several persons stood helplessly by, Jesse T. Watt, 41 years old, proprietor of the 242 taxi station here, bled to death yesterday morning on Federal Highway No. 71, between Wilcox and Burlington Junction. He had been accidentally shot a few minutes before by the gun of Bernard Maher, 19, his employe and fellow hunter.

Mr. Watt and his younger companion left the taxi station about 9 o'clock yesterday morning to go hunting. When they reached the Ort Wilson farm, about eleven miles northwest of Maryville, now occupied by W. H. Ramey, Mr. Watt got out of the car, a coupe, and began to assemble his gun, a "knock down" model. He was standing at the rear of the car.

Maher also got out of the car, it is said, and placed his gun, a double-barrel, 12 gauge, hammerless shotgun, on the rear fender, while he buttoned his coat. It is supposed that the gun slipped and was discharged, the load entering the back of Mr. Watt's right leg, just above the knee, and passing downward through the joint, cutting two ligaments and the main artery.

Just how the accident happened and what immediately followed was not certain today. Maher was prostrated and under a doctor's care at his home.

The victim apparently did not realize at first the seriousness of his injury. As passing cars on the much traveled highway drew up and their occupants alighted, he bled profusely. Elihu Carter, near whose place the accident occurred, went to Burlington Junction for a doctor, but by the time he returned with Dr. C. E. Cossins, about thirty minutes after the shot was fired, Mr. Watt was dead.

Efforts of the bystanders to staunch the flow of blood were without effect. By the time the doctor arrived, they had placed the victim in another car, intending to bring him to the hospital here, but he was pronounced dead by the physician.

Dr. Frank Wallis, county coroner, announced that an inquest would be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Mr. Watt was born December 6, 1885, at Red Oak, Ia., and came to Missouri as a small child with his parents. He had lived in and near Maryville all of his life, except for four years at Scott City, Kan., where his parents now live.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Watt, of Scott City, he is survived by two daughters, Ruby Lucile and Virginia Watt, who live here; three brothers, Vain, Roy and Lacy Watt, of Scott City; and one sister, Mrs. Fred Wallace, with whom he made his home, at 209 West Seventh street.

The parents and one brother, Vain Watt, came today. The two other brothers are unable to come on account of illness.

Funeral services will be held at the Christian Church at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The services will be conducted by the Rev. R. E. Musgrave, pastor of the Christian Church, and the Rev. J. H. Thompson, pastor of the M. E. Church at Burlington Junction, a friend of the family, will assist. Burial will take place in the Miriam cemetery.

GROUP MEETS TO PLAN WORK

SECRETARY OF STATE COUNCIL TALKS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

FIVE CHAIRMEN NAMED

Religious Education Workers Reorganize County; Also Discuss Year's Program.

The Nodaway County Council of Religious Education spent today in reorganizing the county. An all-day meeting was held at the Christian church. Under the new plan there are five districts in the county. The presidents of these districts were named today and they are: C. W. Rogers, Maryville; Miles Spargur, Sheridan, Northeast District; W. A. Needles, Parnell, Southeast District; Clyde Barrett, Skidmore, southwest district; Homer Carmichael, Burlington Junction, northwest district.

H. W. Becker, St. Louis, secretary of the Missouri State Council of Religious Education, arrived at noon today and made the talk of the afternoon.

Mr. Becker presented the program for the year's work and showed the type of organization the council has from district on down to the local school.

The speaker pointed out that the duty of the president of the council is to create public opinion in favor of more religious education and higher ideals. Mr. Becker gave other duties including the following: Arouse a consciousness of responsibility for religious education of childhood and youth; raise efficiency of local schools; secure cooperation among Protestant Christian forces; regulate the district in such a way as to meet these objectives. These policies may be furthered through district conventions, special institutes, through the loan libraries in the state office, through reading courses, training school, newspaper articles and personal correspondence.

Mr. Becker also answered questions and held a general round table discussion for the benefit of the local workers. Separate conferences for the children's and adults divisions and for the administration department were held this afternoon also.

The reorganization of the county for religious education places the churches as follows: southeast district: Ravenwood, Bedison, Barnard, Guilford, Conception Junction, Bethel and Arkoe; southeast district: Maryville, Salem, Pleasant Grove, Rockford, Skidmore, Burr Oak, Swan Chapel, New Hope, Graham, Centenary and Palestine; northeast district, Harmony, Parnell, Gaynor, Brethren, Mapel Grove, Good Hope, Hopkins, Mozingo Valley; Northwest district: Elmo, North Grove, Clearmont, Workman Chapel, Pickering, Wilcox, Burlington Junction and Quitman.

G. B. Roseberry is president of the Nodaway Council.

OMAHA TO ST. LOUIS, 12 HRS.

WABASH TRAINS THROUGH HERE ON FAST SCHEDULE.

EFFECTIVE NEXT WEEK

New Time Card Is Expected Here Soon —Fast Trains, Kansas City To St. Louis, Also Added.

A 12-hour railway service between Omaha and St. Louis, which will put the St. Louis markets upon a par with the Chicago markets for business from the West and Northwest, has caused many changes in the Wabash passenger trains through Maryville. The new time schedule for these trains, which will be effective next Sunday, is expected to be received here within the next day or two.

Passenger train No. 14 will leave Omaha daily at 8 p. m., and arrive in St. Louis at 8 a. m., the following morning. The corresponding train, No. 11, will leave St. Louis at 7:30 p. m., and arrive at Omaha at 7:30 a. m., the following day. No. 14, now due here at 9:45 p. m., will pass through Maryville, probably about 11 o'clock, while No. 11 will go through about the same time as now. These trains will make only a few stops between St. Louis and Omaha.

Saturday's Democrat-Forum gave the changes of the other trains through Maryville, one of which provides that No. 3, arriving here at 7:40 p. m., will remain here all night and return at 6 o'clock the next morning.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat had the following about the faster service between St. Louis and Omaha:

This service, to be afforded by the Wabash Railroad, will make the running time from Omaha to St. Louis the same as that from Omaha to Chicago, twelve hours. The trains will connect with the Union Pacific trains from the West Coast and Northwestern states, which arrive in Omaha between 7 and 8 p. m., giving merchants from those sections of the country service to St. Louis and Chicago that is on a parity for the first time.

This service will also tend to establish St. Louis as a gateway to the East from the West, as passengers from the West arriving in St. Louis at 8 a. m. will be able to take advantage of the coach trains on the Pennsylvania and New York Central for New York City and other Eastern points.

A new midnight train to Kansas city over the Wabash Railway was announced at the same time. This train will leave St. Louis and Kansas City at 11:55 p. m. daily, arriving at the opposite destination at 7:30 o'clock the next morning.

The Wabash train to Des Moines, Ia., which now leaves St. Louis at 6:30 p. m., will leave after December 5 at 9 p. m., arriving in Des Moines at 8:30 a. m. The companion train will leave Des Moines at 8:30 p. m. and arrive in St. Louis at 8 a. m.

The sponsors of the meeting hope that every woman who is a member of either the afternoon or evening auxiliary or any woman of the church who is at all interested in missions, will attend.

As Thursday is the regular meeting day for the afternoon auxiliary, the hostesses, with three hostesses from the evening auxiliary will serve light refreshments following the meeting. GIRL, 15, ENDS HER OWN LIFE

GLADYS ENRETTA LINEBAUGH, NEAR CLEARMONT, TAKES POISON

ROMANCE IS BLAMED

Parents Said To Have Frowned On Marriage To Boy, 16.—Funeral Held This Afternoon.

Leaving no note or other explanation of her act, Gladys Enretta Linebaugh, 15-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Linebaugh, committed suicide Saturday night at her home, four miles east of Clearmont, in the Hazel Dell neighborhood.

The girl took strychnine, which she had purchased at a Clearmont drug store with the explanation that she intended to use it to kill rats. She died about midnight.

The parents were unwilling today to suggest a motive, but friends of the young girl blamed a high school romance, saying that she was infatuated with a boy, 16, and that she was disappointed at the refusal of her parents to permit her to marry. She was a sophomore in Clearmont High School.

Dr. Frank Wallis, county coroner, held a view inquest early yesterday morning and decided that the girl "came to her death from strychnine poisoning administered by herself with suicidal intent."

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home. They were conducted by the Rev. Manning Rose, pastor of the Christian Church at Clearmont.

Besides her parents, Gladys Enretta is survived by an older brother, Alva; a younger brother, Carl; and a younger sister, Olive.

Coal Crisis in Great Britain Nearly Over

London, Nov. 29.—Great Britain's coal crisis, which became acute last April and resulted in the general strike and idleness of most of the pits for almost seven months, apparently had ended today.

Many of the principal coal fields were returning to normal and reductions in coal prices varied as nearly 500,000 men were working in the mines today.

The newspapers generally were advising their readers to delay purchasing coal, in expectation of further rapid price reductions.

NATIONS WINS COURT FIGHT

FORMER LABOR COMMISSIONER ESCAPES PRISON SENTENCE.

REVERAL SUSTAINED

United States Supreme Court Rules Federal Judge Should Have Retired Liquor Case.

Washington, 29.—The government today was ed by the United States Supreme a review of a circuit court decis versing the beer conspiracy convictio of Heber Nations, former Missouri state labor commissioner. Nations was sentenced to eighteen months in the Leavenworth federal penitentiary.

The reversal was made on the ground that Federal Judge C. B. Faris, presiding at the trial, should have retired after the defense had filed an affidavit asserting its belief that he had been influenced by outside information.

Nations was indicted in St. Louis in January, 1925, in the famous Griesedieck Brewery case, for violation of the conspiracy clause of the Volstead act. The government charged he kept the brewery advised through his brother, Gus Nations, a state prohibition officer, when it was safe to market illegal beer.

Heber Nations is publisher of the Jefferson City Post.

COMMITTEES' EVIDENCE IN

DAMAGING TESTIMONY FOR FALL AND DOHENY ADMITTED.

FOUGHT BY DEFENSE

Over Strenuous Objections, Jury Hears Conflicting Statements As To $100,000 Loan.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The whole evidence of the oil millionaire, E. L. Dohan's, loan of $100,000 to Former secretary of the Interior Fall went before the jury here today in the trial of Doheny and Fall on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

The secrecy surrounding the deal, the transfer of the sum in cash from New York to Washington in a little brown bag, the repeated denials of Fall that he received money from Doheny, and his admittedly untrue assertion that he received it from E. B. McLean, Washington newspaper publisher,—all were spread on the court record in one decisive maneuver of the government prosecution.

The action came as a result of decision of Justice A. A. Hoehling that the evidence of the Senate investigating committee in 1923-24 could be presented. Prosecuting counsel therefore was permitted to read to the jury all the salient circumstances of the "oil scandal" investigation.

The evidence was vital to the government's case and was admitted over strenuous objections of the defense.

Chinese Nationalist Demands Are Denied

International Commission Recommends Only Slight Modification in Extra-Territorial Practices.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Chinese nationalist demands for immediate abolition of unequal treaties and of American and other foreign extra-territoriality rights were rejected by the joint international commission headed by Silas Strawn of Chicago, which submitted its report today.

The commission, after a year's study, recommended slight modification at once in extra-territorial practices, with progressive abolition conditional upon codification of Chinese laws, reform of native courts and prisons and establishment of a stable government. Americans and most aliens are now tried by special courts of their own nationality.

FARM GLIMPSES

By BILLY TILSON

Elmer Daise and family, southeast of Skidmore, were Maryville visitors Saturday. Mr. Daise says he hasn't all his corn in the crib and that it will make only a fair yield. He has a fine bunch of hogs that he is feeding.

Everett Griffey and family, southeast of Clearmont, were shopping in the city Saturday. Mr. Griffey says only about one-third of the corn has been husked up that way. The fields are in bad condition for getting in the corn, the yield not very good and quality poor.

John Busby, southwest of Maryville, reports farmers trying to get their corn out of the field but slow progress is being made. He says there are quite a number of hogs being fed in that community and that farmers generally are having good luck with their fall pigs.

L. O. Reasecker, southwest of Maryville, was a Maryville visitor Saturday. Lester has a dandy bunch of shoats that he is feeding.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Worl, southeast of Skidmore, were in the city Saturday. Homer says the yield of corn will be disappointing to most farmers in that territory. While there are some good fields, there are so many that the yield will be poor and the average will only be around 25 bushels per acre.

Noah Duncan, east of Quitman, was transacting business in the city yesterday. He reports the roads in bad condition for traveling.

Roy Jackson, south of Maryville, is laid up with a strained back and it will be several days before he will be able to husk any corn. He says cornhuskers are scarce in his community.

Marion Curry, who has been husking corn for W. E. Espey, south of town, hurt his arm and was compelled to give up his work.

Reports from over the county indicate that there are a great many sick hogs and farmers should look well after their herd. Some say that it might be caused from the poor quality of the corn, while others say that a hog will not eat the damaged corn and they lay it to the changing weather and the conditions in which they are sheltered and cared for. We could go on telling the various reasons for the trouble that the farmers give which might cause sickness among the hogs and then would not be able to suggest any remedy, but we do know they get sick and that the sickness has caused quite a loss and a great amount of anxiety to those who have a fine herd and have them nearly ready for the market.

Mrs. Aaron Felix of St. Joseph came Saturday night for a visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. Matt Sturm.

Hugh Gibson, United States minister to Switzerland, represented the United States at the meeting.

Slays "Other Woman" and Has No Regrets

Mother of Two Small Children Says She Had Asked Girl, 17, to "Leave My Husband Alone."

Kansas City, Nov. 29.—Mrs. Blanche Richmond, 33, mother of two small children, feels she was entirely justified in shooting to death Miss Carrie Sparks, 17, rather than permit the younger woman to have Mrs. Richmond's husband, Harry, 36.

Sitting in the prosecuting attorney's office this morning, awaiting arraignment, Mrs. Richmond told the United Press that she had no regrets whatever over the affair last night.

Mrs. Richmond is a little, faded woman, who looks several years older than she is. She sat nervously, twisting a handkerchief in her hands as she told her story of how she had supported her two children while her husband "ran around with the other woman."

She worked at a packing house here, day after day, to keep her children in clothing and send them to school, she said, while her husband made no effort to help the little family out.

Richmond and Miss Sparks had been living in an apartment here. They met some time ago in St. Joseph and the girl had come here.

Mrs. Richmond had previously asked the girl to "leave my husband alone and get some young man for yourself," and the girl had promised to do so.

Richmond is still being sought by the police. He disappeared immediately after the shooting last night.

Mrs. Richmond is to be arraigned later today.

TRACK MEET TO MARYVILLE

M. I. A. A. WILL HOLD ANNUAL EVENT HERE.

SCHEDULES ARE MADE

Kirksville To Succeed Tarkio As Bearcas' Thanksgiving Day Opponent—Lawrence Vice- Pres.

Ratification of basketball schedules, formation of football schedules, awarding of the conference track meet to Maryville, and election of officers marked the meeting of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association in Kansas City Saturday.

Those attending the meeting from Maryville were Uel W. Bamkin, president of the College; H. Frank Lawrence and Paul R. Jones, coaches; and L. M. Eek.

The State Teachers College Bearcats have taken on a new foe for the annual Thanksgiving Day football game. Beginning next year a home and home series has been arranged for with the Kirksville Bulldogs. This comes as a surprise to some local football fans, but to others it is a welcome change.

In the past, Maryville has been meeting Tarkio on Thanksgiving and Kirksville has been playing the Kirksville Osteopaths. After their game this year, it is understood that the two Kirksville schools severed relations, and Coach Don Faurot started prospecting immediately for a fit team to meet his Bulldogs on Turkey Day.

Maryville officials were seemingly of the opinion that the Tarkio game is "getting stale" and that the Atchison County team has not been the desired drawing card for the Thanksgiving Day game. Therefore, it was decided to take on a conference game for the season closer. That will insure interest until the season is completed, and will in no way prohibit a Maryville-Tarkio game, which can be played earlier in the season.

The football schedule, as far as conference games is concerned, was prepared Saturday. As usual, each of the five teachers college teams will play all of the other teams in the loop. The Maryville conference schedule will open at Cape Girardeau on October 20. On October 28 Springfield will come to Maryville, and on November 11 the Bearcats will go to Warrensburg for the annual Armistice Day game. There will be a home game here on October 14, the time of the teachers' meeting, and St. Benedicts will be played at Atchison, Kans on November 4. October 7 and November 18 remain open.

There were no changes in the conference basketball schedules. These were made at a meeting last spring, and were approved Saturday. The Maryville conference schedule does not open until January 28, and includes twelve games. A new sort of a round robin schedule has been prepared, whereby each conference team meets each other team in three games, two at one school and one at the other, alternating yearly.

Maryville will play host to the M. I. A. A., in track and field competition this year. The spring conference meet is scheduled for here on May 21 and 22. A tennis tournament will be held on May 20.

It is hoped that a new athletic field in Maryville will be completed by that time and that it may be dedicated at the date of the track meet.

There will be no game between Warrensburg and Westminster, champions of the two Missouri College conferences. "Tad" Reid, Warrensburg coach, pointed out that Warrensburg trimmed Kirksville and that Kirksville romped over Westminster by about two touchdown. He doubted the interest in such a game.

Mr. Reid was elected president of the association. He succeeded H. Frank Lawrence, Maryville coach, who was made vice-president. Don Faurot of Kirksville is the secretary.

Following are the schedules.

TOURNAMENT OPENS FRIDAY

14 OR 15 HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TEAMS EXPECTED HERE.

ARE COUNTY WINNERS

Visitors Will Pay Own Rail Expenses but Be Entertained by College. —Finals Saturday.

Some fourteen or fifteen outdoor high school basketball teams, representing as many counties in Northwest Missouri, will assemble at the State Teachers College gymnasium at 9 o'clock Friday morning to fight it out for the championship of the district.

Of the nineteen counties in this district, fifteen have sent the names of their county champions. Actual entry blanks have been received from but ten of these counties, but it is likely that the remainder will arrive in Maryville tonight or tomorrow morning. All entries must arrive in Maryville bearing a postmark no later than yesterday, according to a ruling of the tournament.

Drawings for the tournament will be made at 9 o'clock Friday morning, by H. Frank Lawrence and Paul Jones, coaches at the College. Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Jones will referee the games.

H. E. Raines, Albert Kuchs, and Forrest Froman will be the official timers of the tournament, and Leon Ungles and Orville Hedges, College basketball players, will be the scorers.

Each school will be allowed to play but seven men in the tournament. All games will be played by quarters of 8 minutes each. Eligibility of players will be determined by the rules of the Northwest Missouri High School Athletic Association, and no protests will be accepted after 9 p. m., Thursday. The Board of Control of the association will act on all protests.

Teams will bear their own traveling expenses, but will be entertained while in Maryville by the College. All meals must be taken at the College cafeteria.

Carroll, Clay, Mercer, and Platte counties will have no entries in the tournament, according to information received from the county basketball managers.

Following are the schools expected to enter the tourney and the counties which they represent:

Daleview, Atchison; Easton, Buchanan; Breckenridge, Caldwell; Converse, Clinton; Altamont, Daviess; Union Star, DeKalb; McFall, Gentry; Galt, Grundy; Gilman City, Harrison; New Point, Holt; Utica, Livingston; Pickering, Nodaway; Hardin, Ray; Worth, Worth.

In case there are fifteen teams entered in the tournament, there will be three games Friday morning, five Friday afternoon, and three Friday night. The semi-finals and finals will be played on Saturday. There will be consolation finals between the third and fourth place teams.

The College will give a cup to the team winning the tournament.

Radio Fan Here Sends a Message to Arctic

Achievement of Forrest Martin Is Described in Chicago Tribune.—The Receiver a Northwest Policeman.

Yesterday's Chicago Tribune had a story about Forrest Martin, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Martin, receiving a message over his radio and relaying it to a Canadian government steamship, the Boothic, in Arctic waters. The incident took place last September before Mr. Martin had left Maryville for Cambridge, Mass., where he is attending Harvard University. Since that time he has received several letters from the Canadian government and from the relatives of the party to whom the message was intended.

The story from the Tribune is as follows:

"When S. F. Martin, a local amateur operating station 9DKS, received a message recently to be relayed through his station he was somewhat disconcerted to note that the address was simply "In the Arctic." Remembering, however, that the Canadian government steamship Boothic was at that time in Arctic waters, and knowing also that this ship had a short wave radio outfit on board similar to his own, he immediately put his set into operation in an effort to get in communication with the boat's operator. After a few hours he was successful and passed the message to the Boothic.

"A few days later he was agreeably surprised to get an acknowledgment saying that the message had been delivered to the proper party, a Royal Northwest policeman on duty in the far north, who in thanking the amateur operator wished to explain that this message was the second he had received from home in two years."

A Mild Method That Cures Piles

It was formerly held that the only way to really remove piles entirely and permanently was by a surgical operation, cutting them off. However, Dr. O. A. Johnson, well known rectal specialist, has demonstrated in hundreds of cases that an operation is not necessary to get rid of piles. He does it without using the knife, electricity, burning ,tying off, acids, cautery ,ligatures or other harsh drastic means. Yet the piles are removed cleanly, entirely, and for good.

He has written a book that fully explains his method and is anxious to send it free and without obligation to any sufferer from bleeding, protruding piles or other rectal troubles. Simply send name and address to Dr. O. A. Johnson, suite 134-D, 1324 Main St., Kansas City, Mo. This book tells how to be rid of piles without the expense, pain, danger and inconvenience of a surgical operation, and also how to be rid of various other diseases caused by rectal troubles, such as nervousness, backaches, headaches, rheumatism sciatica, stomach trouble, constipation, etc. When the piles are cured the troubles they cause are cured, too.

MAINE VOTES ON A SENATOR

NORMALLY REPUBLICAN, STATE TODAY MAY GO DEMOCRATIC

CONTROL'S AT STAKE

Victory for Democrat Would Make Tie In Senate.—Republican Governor Fights Party Nominee.

Augusta, Me., Nov. 27.—An unexpectedly light vote in Maine's special election was indicated by returns received at noon today.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The special election today in Maine, originally only a mere formality to confirm the Republican plurality of one in the next United States Senate, has now developed a significance which may determine the fate of the senatorial legislation for the next two years.

As the new Senate now stands there are 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one farmer-laborite with a Republican vacancy to be filled in Maine today.

Since 1856, Maine has gone Democratic only once, and Republican leaders here had presumed that a Republican would be elected to succeed the late Senator Bert M. Fernald, who died recently. This would have given the Republicans the necessary plurality of one, but recent developments have indicated that the election there is in doubt.

Ralph O. Brewster, popular Republican governor of the state, has "upset the dope" with a manifesto urging Republicans to support the Democratic candidate, Fulton J. Redman, against Arthur R. Gould, Republican nominee. Charges have been made that Gould made improper campaign expenditures, but these charges were not sustained.

In the belief of Republican leaders here, Gould's chances of election have been considerably reduced by the Brewster Bolt.

If the Democrats should win, the Democrats would control a plurality of the Senate by one vote. The Farmer-Laborite is expected to vote with Republicans upon organization matters, however, to bring about a 48-48 tie, which would enable Vice-President Dawes to cast the deciding vote for Republicans.

But the situation is further complicated by the series of election contests being threatened against Republican senators-elect. Notice has been served that a fight will be made to keep senators Vare, Republican, Pennsylvania and Smith, Republican, Illinois, from taking their seats. If they are not permitted to vote, the Democrats would hold full sway.

Further there is talk among Democrats here that a contest will be brought against Gould if he is successful, based upon the charges which have been made against him in the campaign.

Brewster contended in his statement that Gould spent more in the primary than is legally permitted.

Cochrane Also Names Graham, While McBride Puts Him on Second Team.—Berst and McCullough Placed.

Two State Teachers College football players were placed on the mythical M. I. A. A. all-star football eleven chosen by E. W. Cochrane, sports editor of the Kansas City Journal Post. They were "Shucks" Graham, center, and "Weenie" Willoughby, quarterback. Willoughby was the only Maryville player to be named on the all-star team selected by C. E. McBride, sports editor of the Kansas City Star. The selections were published in yesterday's papers.

Cochrane selected Donald Berst, Maryville left end, on his second team, and McBride selected "Bill" McCullough, guard, and Graham on his second eleven.

The Journal Post gave honorable mention to McCullough, Captain Eads, halfback; Hartman, tackle; Cox, guard; Ervin, end.

McBride gave honors to Warrensburg in its selections for the all-star teams. The conference champions were given six first-team places and two positions on the second team. Kirksville made three places on the first team and four on the second. Maryville was given one place on the first and two on the second. Springfield made one place on each team. Boys Return From Trenton Conference

Lawrence Wray Is Made Vice-President for 1927.—Maryville's Invitation Favorably Considered.

The fifteen Maryville boys and L. L. St. Clair, representing the protestant churches and the Hi-Y Club, returned last night from Trenton where they have been the past three days attending the older boys conference at Trenton.

Maryville received recognition in a number of ways from the state leaders. The work of the Maryville Hi-Y Club received favorable comment, especially for its splendid merit system, which a number of Missouri clubs plan to adopt.

An invitation was extended to hold the 1927 conference at Maryville. While the state committee of the Young Men's Christian Association does not definitely decide until midsummer, impressions given by the state leaders point toward acceptance.

Lawrence Wray was appointed vice-president of the 1927 conference. Rex Moore of Trenton was chosen president and Jack Morris of Kansas City is secretary.

Walter Allen was appointed as chairman of the committee to frame the resolutions which were read yesterday afternoon at the closing session. He also served on the nominating committee for the 1927 officers.

Reports of the conference will be made in churches and clubs and testimonies of the real values of such a gathering given by the attending delegates.

"PROSPERITY" SAYS HOOVER

HIGHEST STANDARD OF LIVING IN HISTORY.

FEW OUT OF WORK

Agricultural Conditions Are Improved, Declares Hoover, But There Are Still Weak Spots.

Washington, Nov. 29.—New records in the volume of production and consumption, in the physical quantity of exports and imports, and in the rate of wages, were established in the last fiscal year, Secretary of Commerce Hoover declared in his annual economic review today.

"On the whole," Hoover said, "the country was able to maintain the highest standard of living in history, a standard far above that in most countries of the world at this or any other time. This represents a remarkable recovery from the great losses incurred by the nation in the World War."

While important advancements were being made in the efficiency of management and labor and in scientific research and invention, Hoover said there was practically no unemployment.

Manufacturing production, Hoover reported, continued to expand, showing a gain of seven per cent over last year. Improvement was noted in almost every branch of manufacturing industry, he said.

Prices of commodities remained on a par with those last year but the values of sales of retail and mail-order houses, he said, showed a considerable increase.

"The fact," Hoover declared, "that the sales of mail-order houses were more than one-third greater than in the fiscal year 1922-23, is clear evidence of the gradual improvement in buying power among the farm population.

"Very little change has taken place in the general level of wholesale prices during the past four fiscal years. The absence of any sharp upward movement has shown the healthy character of our business activity and its freedom from the dangerous boom psychology."

With the number of square feet of floor space and the value involved in new building contracts more than one-fourth greater than the previous year, Hoover said pace was being kept with the increase in population and better homes offered the public.

Despite the tremendous increase in construction, he said building cost remained relatively stable. The increasing expenditures for construction, he pointed out, have been an essential factor in maintaining and augmenting the activity of many important industries. The majority of building construction was residential.

"Improvement in the methods of financing dwellings is still needed, especially for families of the lower income groups. In particular, it is desirable that interest rates and other charges on second mortgages should be placed on a more reasonable basis."

Agricultural conditions, Hoover said, were improved by the rise in price of some commodities," but there are still weak spots."

"In all the agricultural commodities we must reckon with the steady recovery of European agriculture and the increased competition of Canada, Argentine, and other countries where production, as in the United States, was stimulated by war conditions. Our steadily growing population absorbs more, but obviously so far the increased domestic demand of this country has not overtaken the increase in production in our own and other countries which have served to keep export agriculture out of balance."

The steady gain in volume of railroad traffic continued to roll up, Hoover said, pointing to an increase of eight per cent over last year in the ton-mileage of freight. Operating revenues of railroads jumped five per cent, while the net operating income reached a record of nearly $1,200,000,000, fifteen and one-half per cent greater than last year.

The increasing efficiency of the railroads, Hoover said, was demonstrated by the handling of the enormous increase in traffic without augmenting the force of employees.

"Much of the credit for the improvement of the railroads is due to the recently established regional advisory boards of shippers and receivers of merchandise, which have continued to function actively throughout the United States.

"There still remains important transportation problems to be solved, such as extension of terminals, adjustment of rates, adequate development of internal waterways, and establishment of proper relations on the motor truck and bus to the railroad. It is essential that our transportation facilities keep pace with our increasing production."

One of the outstanding developments of the year, Hoover said, was the increasing use of the motor truck and bus in conjunction with other forms of transportation. Transportation experts, he said, are beginning to comprehend the possibilities of the motor vehicle as a cooperative instead of a competitive factor. More than 50 railroads are supplementing their service with motor trucks, while as many others are availing themselves of the motor bus. He urged extensive studies of the possibilities the motor vehicles offered as an adjunct to other forms of transportation.

Comparatively little change took place in the ocean shipping situation during the year, he said. With the balance between ship capacity and available cargoes still unrestored, he said the situation remained unsatisfactory for ship operators.

The difficulty France is experiencing in solving the problem of its currency is the "most unsatisfactory spot in international finance," Hoover said in pointing to many new records in American financial activities. For the first time, bank clearings and debits to individual bank accounts, each exceeded $500,000,000,000, he said.

"In every month the debits to individual bank accounts were notably larger than in the corresponding month of the previous fiscal year. A striking expansion in banking operations is shown also by the statistics of reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve system, which reported larger totals for loans and discounts, investments and deposits, as of June 30, 1926, than as of the corresponding date 1925.

"This expansion in financial activities was accomplished without dangerous tension of commercial credit, without any perceptible increase in merchandise stocks, with a smaller stock of money than in any other recent year, and without any appreciable advance in the level of wholesale prices. The upward trend in credit operations appears, therefore, to represent a steady growth, reflecting the general progress of industry and commerce rather than any temporary inflationary expansion."

With $1,302,000,000 foreign capital issues offered in the United States, operations as "a lending Nation," Hoover said, continued about the same as last year. Of the issues offered for sale, $335,000,000 consisted of German capital issues.

Financial improvement abroad, Hoover said, was almost general. Previous gains in public finance and currency mobilization were consolidated in most countries, and further progress was made toward limiting the fluctuations in exchange rates, "hitherto so destructive in international trade and finance." Financial aid in Germany, he said, was aided in some degree by the so-called flight of capital from the franc.

The value of exports declined slightly as compared with the previous year, Hoover said, the lower average price of export commodities.

Henry Stevens' Own Alibi

Mrs. Frances S. Hall's stern, poised brother and co-defendant Henry Stevens, the first defense witness of importance to take the stand at the Hall-Mills trial in Somerville, N. J., is here shown telling in detail of his movements the night of the double killing. He was fishing near his home in Lavalette, N. J., when the murders were committed, Stevens said, and knew nothing of them until the receipt of a telegram from a cousin forty-eight hours later.

Mrs. Hall as She Sees Herself

Here is the first recent photograph of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall of which she approves. A Princeton, N. J., photographer made it at Mrs. Hall's order, after she became distressed over pictures which showed her, she said, a "terrible, ugly, scheming woman." Mrs. Hall is on trial in New Jersey charged with murdering her husband and Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

Yale Student Has Row With Father; Becomes Laborer

New Orleans, Nov. 29.—Another story of youth's revolt against the beliefs of his father was revealed here when Talmage Elrod, 21, a former Yale student was discovered working as a day laborer.

Elrod, while attending the University, assimilated the beliefs of the moderns and on returning hame aired these views before the family fireside. Discussion between father and son followed and from this point it progressed into an argument. Religion entered the conversation as it is prone to do and another point of disagreement had been discovered.

The father, one of the wealthiest men in Thomasville, Ga., refused to send his progeny back to college as long as he retained his views. The son, in turn, refused to go back to college on the money furnished by his father and so they parted.

Elrod, disregarding Horace Greeley's advice, headed south. New Orleans looked attractive. He had heard glamorous tales of romance about this Latin town.

In New Orleans he applied to a construction company for a job as laborer. For qualifications for the position, or better job, he informed the foreman that he had had two years college training. The foreman looked the applicant over carefully and said "Young man you get the job."

And now Elrod can be seen, if one doesn't have a stiff neck, walking on girders high above the street with the nonchalance of an inveterate girder walker.

As your correspondent hugged a steel upright with one arm and clenched an Alpine stock with the other getting this story, young Elrod smiled benignly and said "I prefer this work to office employment."

The young man intends to work here and save enough money to return to Yale to continue his study of medicine, that is of course, if he can stick to the straight and narrow path prescribed by the girders.

American Expedition Into Africa Is Lost

Cape Town, South Africa, Nov. 29.—Somewhere in the South African jungles a hunting expedition led by two American doctors, is lost, its fate unknown to the outside world.

Fears for the safety of the party were entertained here because of reports from other sources that food supply was probably exhausted through the raid of Bushmen on a supply being taken with them.

The hunters, from whom no word has been received since September, are Dr. W. W. McMillan of Birmingham, Ala., and Dr. N. Magoon, a dentist with a practice in Salisbury, Rhodesia.

Two marching parties are being organized here to go to the aid of the men.

Dissatisfaction with the expedition on the part of Dr. McMillan was reported in September. He was threatening to leave and expected to be in London by the end of November.

Yes, It's Marguerite

Yesteryear she basked in the glamor of Broadway and Hollywood. Now, a day's thrill for Marguerite Clark is leaving her small-town home in Patterson, La., and going to New Orleans to see a football game. The large picture shows her as a gridiron fan of today, the inset as a curly-haired movie star of years ago. She's the wife of Harry Williams, wealthy Louisiana lumberman.

Heroism of Bearcat Football Captain is Described by Coach in Kansas City Star

The sporting comment in Sunday's Kansas City Star contained the following:

Recently to this writer came a letter from H. F. ("Shorty") Lawrence, head coach of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College at Maryville. In that letter was told a story, so fine, illustrating why professional football never will carry the kick or hold the thrill that characterizes the college game, yet the letter was not written with any thought or mention of professional football. The lesson of the loyalty and team and college spirit of one player is so fine that we feel Mr. Lawrence will have no objection to the publication of that part of his letter:

Our game with Warrensburg was my forty-second game of football since I have been coaching in Maryville. Although winning thirty-two of them, losing eight and tieing two, I often have wondered whether or not it was worth the effort, the nervous strain, the sleepless nights. In the Warrensburg game I have had my answer. By the courage and spirit of one man in addition to the fighting spirit of my entire team, I have been repair in full for all the effort. Loyalty, spirit, courage, and all the attributes that go to make up this greatest of games, cease to be mere words in the face of what I saw one of my players accomplish against Warrensburg.

The incident was this: Capt. David Eads, out of the line-up for most of the season with an injured shoulder, returned to play in the last conference game of his college career. Early in the game he intercepted a Warrensburg pass, which put us in position to score. We failed, although this little 140-pound captain rallied his Bearcats again and again, but they were not quite strong enough.

Sometime about the middle of the second quarter he made a crashing tackle near his own goal line. Little did his mates or his coach know that in that tackle he completely fractured his collar bone. I noticed that he was holding his shoulder but as he had done this for weeks I thought nothing about it.

Warrensburg soon scored but failed to kick goal and Maryville received the kick-off. Captain Eads advised that they open up and try to score before the half ended. Knowing nothing of his injury Willoughby called Eads back and called on him for a pass. It was good. He called for another and again the pass was good for a gain, putting the ball past the middle of the field. I sent in an end who is a good pass receiver and the boys faked a place kick that turned into a forward pass. The receiver was behind the goal in the open. Eads saw him and with a mighty effort heaved the ball. The pass was short and incomplete. The whistle blew, ending the half. Eads staggered down to the end of the field and said, "Shorty, I'm done for good, I guess," and proceeded to faint away.

We found that he had thrown those last four passes with a broken collar bone and that in that last effort to get the ball to the receiver behind the goal line he had caused the ragged fracture to tear through the veins and muscles of his shoulder.

Sounds like Frank Merriwell stuff, I know. Probably I should have had us winning the game at the end of that kind of a story but sad to say, we lost to the better team, 12 to 0. But I have won many a victory where I did not feel nearly so well pleased as I did at the end of this contest. Why? Because in the first place my team went down fighting until the last whistle, every mother's son of them, and in the second place, because I had been treated to a display of how this greatest of all games had moulded a real man from the laughing care-free boy who came here four years ago. I could go on and tell of how he refused to go to the hospital but was propped up on chairs and blanket on the sidelines. Of how Willoughby, his roommate, returned to the game with tears running down his face and fighting as he never fought before, almost was away time after time. But I've said enough. Probably now, you think I am trying to write a dime novel.

May Manage

Harry Hooper, former star outfielder of the Boston Red Sox, is being prominently mentioned as the successor to Lee Fohl as manager of that club. Hooper was a big favorite in Boston as a member of baseball's greatest outfield, Lewis, Speaker and Hooper, and his return as manager would be a popular move.

LOWDEN BOOM TO BE OPENED

PRESIDENTIAL "POSSIBILITY" TO SPEAK AT FARM MEET.

INVITATION ACCEPTED

Illinoisan Will Take Place Coolidge Had Last Year Before Farm Bureau Federation.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Boom of Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illionis, as presidential timber, is expected to be materially advanced here December 6-8 at the annual winter meeting of the American Farm bureau federation.

Lowden has definitely accepted an invitation to be the principal speaker at the gathering, federation leaders have announced, and this circumstance is regarded as significant in view of his advocacy of farm relief measures.

President Coolidge last year occupied the position Lowden is slated to hold at the coming session of farm bureau leaders, and it is commonly admitted the president's acts in relation to farm legislation are not pleasing to the midwestern group which dominates the federation.

Discussion of plans for weakening resistance of congress to pleas of the midwest for government assistance in agriculture will be the principal topic of discussion at the session. Federation leaders in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri are understood to be organized prior to the convention and will report progress at the meeting.

Although federal farm relief measures supported by the bureau have gone down to definite defeat twice, leaders are confident that a legislative pulmotor can be applied successfully.

To further plans to assemble the largest possible number of farmers in the interest of Lodwen's candidacy and reviving the McNary-Haugen bill, the bureau has intentionally included a social program of unprecedented proportions for the winter meeting. It is planned to intersperce the discussion of serious problems of the bureau with a liberal portion of entertainment.

A national farm bureau agricultural exposition, which the organization intends to make an annual affair, will be held in connection with the convention. Since meetings are to be held immediately after the International Livestock exposition here Nov. 27 to Dec. 4, many of the prominent exhibitors at the stock show are expected to remain in Chicago for the convention.

A "cooperative luncheon" at which all food will be furnished by farm cooperative marketing organizations will be held on the opening day.

Queen Mary Starts Christmas Shopping

London.—Queen Mary is "doing her Christmas shopping early," enjoys going about the stores quite as much as women less highly placed in social life.

The Queen does her shopping is such a natural feminine way that she is not always observed in the movement of the throng. Her favorite practice is to use a limousine to get to a store and accompanied only by a lady in waiting, to walk in unannounced. She is soon lost among the other shoppers and never attempts to exercise her high estate at the bargain counter.

Occasionally a shop girl, during her drab routine, will look up and recognize the royal patron. The result is usually disastrous for competitive customers, but the astonished counter-girl always finds Her Majesty patient and kindly.

Christmas is not an easy business for the Queen. She is devoted to her friends and never fails to remember them on such an occasion. It is necessary for her to do her shopping early because she has so much to do and many gifts must be sent overseas, requiring considerable time for delivery. She is further human in that she carries a shopping list and, woman like, checks it off now and then.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

JUDITH MARTIN, youngest member of the Pendleton University faculty, gets into the bad graces of DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN, because she accepts the attention of ERIC WATERS, rebel senior.

DR. PETER DORN, astronomy professor, also admires Judith and tries to persuade her to concilate the dean.

MYRA ALDRICH, in love with Eric, is jealous of Judith.

Eric is suspected of bootlegging poison liquor, from which two students die.

Mrs. Timothy Brown is grateful to Judith for not gossiping after she sees Mrs. Brown with a man companion in a Middleburg hotel.

"KITTY" SHEA, a town bootlegger with whom Eric is supposed to have had dealings, overhears a conversation between Mrs. Brown and Judith in a tea shop, and blackmails Mrs. Brown.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXV.

Eric's gaze faltered under Judith's eyes, but he stubbornly kept silence. They stood facing each other in the dark road.

Judith began to laugh. "THE other man!' When did you get the idea that you had only one rival?"

In spite of himself, Eric was stirred by her raillery. But he answered sullenly, "When you say that Shea is trying to blackmail you and somebody else, that means just one, doesn't it?" He raised his eyes to her face. "What have you done Judith?"

"If I didn't need you so badly, I'd walk away from you and your childish blockheadedness this minute," she remarked. "As it is, I'll have to bear with you. I suppose you really mean well toward me."

"You can't expect a jealous man to behave like a man of stone," said Eric.

"First of all," said Judith, "the other person in the mess isn't a man at all, but a woman. I'm not privileged to tell her secrets. But you already know about the thing that Shea is holding over me."

Eric started. "What on earth?"

"The Blue Moon raid, and nothing else," replied Judith, and waited as the surprise rose in his eyes.

"But how did he know about it?" gasped Eric.

"I've been thinking," answered Judith. "Do you remember my saying that somebody was looking through the window, when we went down the corridor that night?"

"Yes!" cried Eric. "That must have been Shea. We passed him on the road just before."

Judith looked at him. "Just what, if I may ask, is—or was—your connection with Shea?"

Eric spoke easily, without shifting his eyes. "That's simple. I buy whiskey from him—or did, before the poison deaths. That's all."

Judith went up to him and put her hand on his arm. "I'm glad that's all," she said softly. "But I want you to tell me what to do."

He raised his head. "I'll take care of this business," he said.

"But what can you do?" asked Judith. "Have you any influence over Shea?"

Eric laughed. "Well, not exactly a mother's influence. But I fancy I could make it rather hot for him if I chose to squeal. I'll have a talk with him."

"But he knows that if you squeal on him, you also ruin yourself. The discipline board is just waiting for an excuse to expel you."

"That's true," said Eric. "But perhaps I can bluff him."

Judith was silent a moment. "And if you can't, what then? I tell you this other woman's case is far more desperate than mine. I don't particularly care what they do to me, so long as I have a clear conscience. But she—well, it means the breaking up of a home."

Eric smiled. "You're talking about Mrs. Timothy Brown, I have seen you with her. She's confided in you."

"I can't tell you anything," answered Judith. "But you must do what you can. Make Shea think you know the whole story."

"If I can save that unfortunate woman from a dilemma and help her deceive Timothy, that's a double reason for butting in. Of course I'll do it."

"What if you can't bluff him?" persisted Judith.

Eric's mouth was set. "Don't ask. I'll fix him all right. I'll fix Shea."

Judith put her hand on his arm again. "Don't do anything foolish," she said very gravely. He shrugged.

A few days later, during the week before the Christmas holidays, Judith received a letter bearing a Chicago postmark. She tore it open as she went up stairs, and turned to the signature. It was from the aunt with whom she had intended to spend the Christmas vacation.

"Dear Judith," the note began, "I am dreadfully sorry to disappoint you—I know how dreary Christmas is in a college town—but Junior is in bed with scarlatina, and the house is quarantined. His case is not serious, but the doctor thinks it highly inadvisable—"

Judith trailed up the stairs. As she laid her books down on the table and picked up the letter again, Myra bounced into the room. She was carrying a sumptuous coat of carmel over her arm.

"Look at!" she shouted boisterously, holding it at arm's length. "My dad sent this to me, as a Christmas present, ahead of time. He thought I'd like to have it for the trip home."

"I should think anybody would like it for any occasion whatever, Myra," replied Judith, pleasantly. "It's a gorgeous thing."

Myra slipped it on over her negligee and ran to the mirror. "A little bit prima donna-ish for one so young," she commented, looking critically at her reflection, "but not to be spurned, oh dear no."

"Spurned!" repeated Judith. "Really, Myra, you're getting worse and worse spoiled, all the time."

Myra giggled. "It's lots of fun, being spoiled." Then, with a flash of insight, "I guess it isn't so much fun for the people around you, though." She turned, back to the glass.

"Dad bought this by himself. Mother's in Bermuda. If she's been there, she's have picked out a nice girlish gray squirrel, for about half the price."

Judith laughed. Myra turned around and came toward her. "What were you looking so doleful about when I came in? Was there bad news in that letter?" She pointed toward the envelope on the table.

"Nothing very serious," replied Judith, "but it spoils my plans. Because a small cousin has scarlatina, I'll have to spend Christmas here."

"Oh, Judith, how awful. I'd rather die than stay in this hole, when everybody else is gone. My heavens, you'll be alone with the Stedways."

Judith made a wry face.

Myra was thinking. "Gee, I wish I could take you with me. But dad and I are going to my grandmother's in the country and her little house will be full of aunts and uncles and cousins."

"Oh, it isn't a killing matter," said Judith. "I'll get used to the idea and not mind it. I'm just disappointed for the moment. My Christmases have been rather black since mother and father died. At boarding school I used to cry all Christmas day. That's why I wanted to go to Chicago this year. But I'm grown up now, and above such nonsense."

Myra was knitting her forehead with her chin on her hands. "Say, Judith, I have an idea. The Gamma Deltas were wishing they knew somebody who could stay in the sorority house during the holidays, just to see that the servants kept it clean and didn't invite all their friends in to dance on the Chinese rugs and play the victrola. Wouldn't you rather stay there than here? The house is comfortable—luxurious, after this Stedway dump. There are fire places, and nice white tiled baths, and great easy chairs and a library. And the servants will cook good food." Myra paused, breathless, but had another idea. "That big living room with the grand piano is a gorgeous place to have dates."

Judith smiled, "Yes, if there are any dates left in town."

Myra jumped up and down on the bed. "Will you do it? The girls will be tickled to death. You can have the chapter president's room—the cutest place. Every president since the house was built has left something for the room, and it's got lamps and pictures and an inlaid Louis Quinze dressing table that an oil man's daughter bought to splurge over the rest of them."

Judith considered. "Yes, I think I will, Myra."

"Fine! I'll just sneak down in my negligee and call up the house, to tell 'em."

The doorbell rang below, and Myra ran to her room instead. "Have to put on my dress now," she said. "Can't sneak down undressed."

Nobody answered the ring. It came again and again. Judith left her room and went down the steps. The shadow of a man loomed beyond the glass panel of the door. She ran to open it, and Dr. Dorn stood before her.

"How do you do, Miss Martin, I came especially to—"

"Hi, there," whooped Myra, flying down the stairs. "Dr. Dorn! So glad to see you. I though perhaps you'd drop 'round, to tell me whether we can telescope the moon tonight."

(To Be Continued).

The sorority house is not so inviting to Judith as it had sounded, as she learned when she returned from a drive to find it deserted and dark.

Wife of Song Writer Off Social Register

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Berlin Not in New List of "400".—Stillmans Kip Rhinelander Also Ignored.

New York, Nov. 29.—The name of Ellen Mackay, who married Irvin Berline, America's most famous song writer, has been stricken from the record of New York's social elite—The social register.

The Register, which recently made its 41st annual appearance wholly ignored the name of the composer and his wife.

With the removal of the former Miss Mackay's name, formerly one of the strongest and most acceptable in New York's list, the Berlins have felt the punishment imposed upon other members of the "400" who have stepped sensationally into public news—the Stillmans' and Leonard Kip Rhinelander.

Leonard K. Rhinelander's name was removed last year following his suit for annulment of his marriage to Alice Beatrice Jones, daughter of a colored taxi-driver.

And the names of James J. Still-man and his wife, once leaders in New York's highest social strata were banished from the pages of the select after their sensational divorce suit. None of the names reappeared although the usual maximum penance is one year.

Weauhteau—A mining boom is on here following the discovery of lead and zinc deposits. Virtually the entire district is under lease and surveyors declare the vein of ore will stand mining for 50 years.

No Engine Fumes in Buick Closed Cars!

In the 1927 Buick, the new Vacuum Ventilator pulls engine fumes and gases from the crankcase and ejects them outside the car.

This vital new Buick improvement does away with noxious odors. It adds greater luxury and pleasure to enclosed car operation.

The Vacuum Ventilator serves another very important purpose. With it, crankcase vapors have no opportunity to condense and dilute the oil. Owners of 1927 Buicks are advised to drain their crankcase oil only 4 times during the year.
